Meg Thomas is a graduate of the Academy of Art College in San Francisco, California, with a Master's Degree in Interior Design. Meg's strengths lie in her programming and planning abilities. Her project background includes projects of both large and small scale, and a wide range of corporate, educational and multi-purpose institutional clients. A strong believer in sustainably responsible design, Meg takes a special interest in planning and design for Leadership in Energy and Efficient Design (LEED) qualifications. She has a talent for managing large amounts of information, synthesizing it and presenting it back in clear, concise form. Meg also excels in communication and navigates easily through programming meetings and presentations.
