Paul Beckmann is an architect with over 20 years experience. A graduate of the University of Florida in both graduate and undergraduate studies, Paul is highly experienced in architectural project development spanning from initial conceptual planning through design development and final execution. Prior to joining Bartzen + Ball, Paul has worked at SmithGroup in Washington, D.C., as well as HNTB in Alexandria. His particular emphasis throughout his career has been on local projects, with work addressing such local landmarks as the Shakespeare Theatre Company and the restoration of the Hecht Company Department Store in downtown D.C. Paul brings particular strengths in the conceptualization of complex three-dimensional building problems, and in the visual communication of those solutions to the client.
